

The Drybar concept has approximately 140 shops in 29 states. (PROVIDED)

Drybar: No cuts. No color. Just blowouts.

Palm Beach County blow-dry junkies, prepare for your new obsession. Drybar, the go-to blowout spot for glam girls from New York to Los Angeles is coming to Palm Beach Gardens. Drybar opens this December in Alton Town Center. Step into the sunny, bar-inspired blowout shop to see what's on tap.

Drybar only offers blowouts, and they aim to be the best. The mother-daughter team of Melissa and Vanessa Medrano are bringing the concept to Palm Beach County. Melissa Medrano has already developed a cult-like devotion for her slew of Orangetheory Fitness locations.

"Drybar offers the same boutique feel and high-quality experience Orangetheory fans love," said shop owner, Melissa Medrano. "It will be a happy place where members get a boost of confidence in a beautiful environment."

Barflies, or members at Drybar, get exclusive perks and savings. At the core of the experience is Drybar's dedication and attention to detail, signature services, and products. Every shop offers the same cocktail-themed styles, so customers know they can get the same fabulous look whether they are in New York City, Los Angeles, or Palm Beach Gardens. Plus, customers can listen to music, sip champagne, or take in a movie while they get glamorous.

Life isn't perfect, but your hair can be. Drybar opens this December in Alton Town Center at 5300 Donald Ross Road, Suite 105. Check it out online at drybarshops.com.
